

SPOTTING THE SIGNS

If you think a child is being abused or you think their safety is at risk, then it is important to tell someone.

These are some potential signs of abuse and neglect

Frequent unexplained injuries

Consistently poor hygiene

Becoming unusually secretive and reluctant to share information

Unexplained gifts or possessions

A parent regularly collecting children from school when drunk / on drugs

Demanding or aggressive behaviour

Frequent lateness or absence from school

Avoiding their own family

A young person misusing drugs or alcohol

A child being constantly tired

Sexual or aggressive language

Self-harming

Being overly obedient

You don't have to be absolutely certain about whether a child is being abused. If you have a feeling that something's not right, talk to your local children's social care team who will look into it.

These are all signs of potential abuse or neglect.
